Questions 1–30

Passage 1

Democracy is often described as government by the people, but elections alone do not guarantee a democratic society. A functioning democracy requires institutions capable of checking governmental power, an independent judiciary, a free press and citizens who are willing to participate in public affairs. Democratic institutions become meaningful only when citizens respect both majority decisions and minority rights. The strength of democracy therefore depends not merely on who wins an election but also on how power is exercised after the election.

Question 1

According to the passage, elections alone:

- A. Guarantee democracy
- B. Are unnecessary in democracy
- C. Do not guarantee a democratic society
- D. Are superior to constitutional institutions

Answer: C

Solution: The passage expressly states that elections alone do not guarantee a democratic society. Institutions and citizen participation are also necessary.

Question 2

Which of the following is NOT mentioned as necessary for a functioning democracy?

- A. Independent judiciary
- B. Free press
- C. Citizens' participation
- D. Military government

Answer: D

Solution: The passage mentions an independent judiciary, free press and citizen participation, but not military government.

Question 3

The word “merely” in the passage most nearly means:

- A. Completely
- B. Only
- C. Certainly
- D. Frequently

Answer: B

Solution: “Merely” means “only” or “simply.”

Question 4

The central idea of the passage is that:

- A. Elections should be abolished
- B. Democracy depends only on majority rule
- C. Democracy requires institutions and responsible exercise of power
- D. Judiciary should control elections

Answer: C

Solution: The passage explains that democracy requires more than elections—it requires institutional checks, rights protection and citizen participation.

Question 5

The phrase “checking governmental power” means:

- A. Increasing governmental power
- B. Limiting or controlling governmental power
- C. Eliminating elections
- D. Supporting every government decision

Answer: B

Solution: Institutional checks exist to prevent arbitrary or excessive governmental power.

Question 6

Choose the word closest in meaning to “participate”:

- A. Withdraw
- B. Engage
- C. Avoid

Question 7

Choose the word opposite in meaning to “minority”:

- A. Majority
- B. Individual
- C. Group
- D. Community

Answer: A

Solution: The opposite of minority is majority.

Question 8

According to the passage, democratic institutions become meaningful when citizens:

- A. Reject majority decisions
- B. Respect majority decisions and minority rights
- C. Avoid public affairs
- D. Support only the ruling party

Answer: B

Solution: This is expressly stated in the passage.

Passage 2

Technology has transformed education by making information accessible to millions of learners. However, access to information does not automatically create knowledge. Students must evaluate sources, distinguish reliable information from misinformation and develop the ability to think independently. Technology is therefore most useful when it complements rather than replaces critical thinking.

Question 9

The passage primarily argues that:

- A. Technology is harmful to education
- B. Information and knowledge are identical
- C. Technology should complement critical thinking
- D. Students should stop using technology

Answer: C

Solution: The concluding sentence clearly states that technology is most useful when it complements rather than replaces critical thinking.

Question 10

According to the passage, information becomes knowledge when students:

- A. Memorise everything
- B. Evaluate and critically analyse information
- C. Avoid technology
- D. Accept every online source

Answer: B

Solution: The passage emphasises evaluating sources and distinguishing reliable information from misinformation.

Question 11

“Misinformation” means:

- A. Accurate information
- B. Information that is false or misleading
- C. Confidential information
- D. Official information

Answer: B

Question 12

The author would most likely agree that:

- A. Every internet source is reliable
- B. Technology makes critical thinking unnecessary
- C. Students should verify information
- D. Traditional education has no value

Answer: C

Solution: Source evaluation and critical thinking are central to the passage.

Question 13

The phrase “complements rather than replaces” means technology should:

- A. Completely substitute teachers
- B. Work alongside critical thinking
- C. Eliminate education
- D. Replace books in every situation

Answer: B

Solution: Complement means to add to or enhance something rather than substitute it.

Question 99

Principle: "A person who intentionally causes damage to another's property may be liable for the resulting loss."

A intentionally breaks B's window without justification.

Which is the most appropriate conclusion?

- A. A may be liable for the damage
- B. A can never be liable
- C. B is automatically liable
- D. The damage has no legal relevance

Answer: A

Solution: The facts satisfy the basic principle: intentional damage to another's property can result in liability.

Question 100

Principle: "A person cannot transfer a better title than he himself possesses, subject to recognised exceptions."

A steals a watch and sells it to B. B sells it to C.

Who originally had the better title?

- A. A
- B. B
- C. C
- D. The original owner of the watch

Answer: D

Solution: A obtained the watch unlawfully and therefore could not ordinarily transfer a better title than he possessed. The original owner retains the better title, subject to any applicable statutory exception.
